

Information for Aboriginal Applicants

The NTPS strives to have a culturally competent workforce that can operate effectively and deliver services in a culturally appropriate manner. Special Measures is a tool to assist agencies to ensure their workforce is representative of the community and provides opportunities for Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islanders (Aboriginal) people to pursue careers in the NTPS.

Proof of Eligibility for Special Measures?

Statutory Declaration

- Aboriginal applicants who apply for a vacancy and wish to be considered under a special measures recruitment plan are required to attach a statutory declaration with their application declaring that they meet special measures eligibility requirements.
- The applicant will also need to indicate in the online recruitment system that they are Aboriginal.
- The statutory declaration is available from the OCPE website.

Confirmation of Aboriginality

- If selected, the suitable and successful Aboriginal applicant must also provide a Confirmation of Aboriginality (CoA) or other satisfactory proof of Aboriginality as approved by the Commissioner of Public Employment, prior to commencement in the role.
- A CoA is a document provided by a registered / incorporated Aboriginal authority and/or organisation confirming that a person is Aboriginal. A range of Aboriginal authorities and organisations can issue a CoA. For more information and to search for Aboriginal authorities, visit Office of Registered Indigenous Corporations \(ORIC\)

The Application process

For all NTPS vacancies, applications are limited to a one-page summary with an attached detailed resume/CV. The one page summary should briefly summarise suitability for the vacancy. The resume/CV should set out details of education, qualifications, past work history, level and job duties, achievements, and details of appropriate relevant referees - ideally current or recent supervisors. This information will help the selection panel in determining whether or not the applicant warrants further consideration.

Types of Special Measures Recruitment Plans

Priority Consideration for Aboriginal Applicants

- Vacancy is open to all persons, but eligible Aboriginal applicants will be assessed first and offered the vacancy if they meet all the essential selection criteria and are suitable at the level of the position.
- Other applicants will only be assessed for selection if there is no suitable Aboriginal special measures applicant who accepts the vacancy.
- Where there is more than one suitable Aboriginal special measures applicant the vacancy will be offered to the Aboriginal special measures applicant assessed as most suitable for the vacancy.

Designated Aboriginal Positions:

- Vacancies are reserved only for eligible Aboriginal applicants, and no other applicants will be considered.
- The Aboriginal special measures applicant selected must meet all the essential selection criteria and be suitable at the level of the position.
- If no Aboriginal applicant meets this standard the job will not be filled until such time as a suitable Aboriginal applicant is found to fill to position.